PAT CUNNINGHAM to SPEAK on COLOR

Patricia Cunningham, Carmel artist, will present a series of six lectures illustrated with charts and slides for the Carmel Adult School Forum, which starts Wednesday, Nov. 2, in the Sunset School Auditorium, according to Charles Dawson, principal. The forum will run for six consecutive Wednesday evenings during this fall season.

Mrs. Cunningham's topics, in the following order, will be "The Emotional Significance of Color in Painting," "The Marriage of Color and Form," "The Evolution of Color in Painting," "What Makes a Master of Color?", "The Mechanics of Vision in Life and in Art," "What You Should Get Out Of A Painting."

GODWINS RETURN from HUNTING TRIP

Fred and Harrison Godwin have just returned from a week's stay at Bing Crosby's ranch, 50 miles north of Elko, Nevada. They were there for deer season and, while Fred got a two-year-old buck, Harrison says he didn't do any hunting, but accompanied the nimrods on treks about the 28,000 acre ranch.

The deer were plentiful, the Godwins report, but two feet of snow and 16 degree weather didn't help much, they admit. Other guests at the ranch were Wally Westlake, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Bill Fleming, coast league ball player.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan today announced issuance of a notary public commission to Judson T. Stull, of Carmel.

NAME BAND BOOKED FOR USO BALL

What will be regarded as the social event of the year will be given at the Navy Line School main ball room Wednesday night, Nov. 2, when Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiian orchestra, with a brace of entertainers, including the celebrated Hilo Hattie, will furnish the music, for the second annual USO Hospitality Fund Ball.

The Royal Hawaiians come direct from Hollywood, where they are appearing on a television show and are breaking the record of Xavier Cugat at the Aragon ball room.

The USO ball is given to raise the hospitality fund that is used to purchase Christmas presents and give a Christmas party for the thousands of service men who will be away from their homes during the holiday season. Other affairs of this nature are given during the year through the hospitality fund, which is not supplied by the New York office of the USO.

"Seldom is it possible to see an attraction half as good as the Royal Hawaiians on the Monterey Peninsula," said Jack Dougherty, chairman of the USO dance committee. "In a city, one has to pay four times as much as one will have to pay for the USO ball to hear the Hawaiians and see their entertainers. We feel that we are giving residents of this district a great treat."

The dance is open to the public and will be a semi-formal affair. Mrs. Gladys Johnston is Carmel chairman for the affair and will have charge of the ticket sale in Carmel.

Carmel Business Changes Name

The Carmel Building and Loan Association has changed its name to the Carmel Savings and Loan Association. The change was made in line with current practice all over the state, as the new name more accurately describes the functions of the institution, according to Barnet J. Segal, secretary-treasurer.

The firm was founded in 1940 and now has assets of more than $650,090, said Mr. Segal, who is the managing director. Mr. Segal started the Bank of Carmel in 1923, managing it for more than five years.

The SPECTRE

by Carf Andsand.

I always end up feeling slightly out of sorts when I write this column. You've probably heard of people who have an aversion to stepping on the cracks in the sidewalk, or those who will not stop brushing their teeth in the morning until they have swiped an even number of times on each side of their mouths, or the certain ritualistic ways there are of shaving. Ad infinitum, ad nauseum...

Well, every time I start thinking about this column on Tuesday night (and it happens every Tuesday night) two lines of poetry run through my mind. Those two lines are as inescapable as Death. I have to put them firmly out of my head before I can start writing. The result is that I end up by grumbling at people and, at times, I feel compelled to let the air out of automobile tires. I become a real heller.

Now that lilacs are in bloom
She has a bowl of lilacs in her room...

There!

I have checked with the author and found that the highly intriguing submarine cave south of Point Lobos, walls and ceiling lined with abalone, was just 100 percent fish story, but the tale concerning diving was written entirely from first-hand experience. Very entertaining it was. The author? Carmel's Harry Dixon. The story? "The Trap," which appeared Sunday in This Week magazine section of the San Francisco Chronicle.

Speaking of authors, Monterey is richer by one. A returnee... Sybil Bolitho, who has been down south, came back recently and will start her second class in creative writing, again under the auspices of the Carl Cherry Foundation in Carmel. Many of her "students" are coming back for more, but there are a few (two or three) scholarships available for writers and aspiring writers who are serious about it. Phone Monterey 8303. (For embellishments see the SPECTATOR, pg.2, July 7, 1949.)

The first meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m.

Before I forget. Why in the name of peace and quiet don't they arm the ushers and usherettes in Carmel and Monterey theaters with rubber truncheons. Particularly Carmel. Some people complain about the sound of crunching popcorn, but I can't even hear my own popcorn in local balconies. And crunching reminds me of rubber truncheons and little heads, not that the small children are at fault. It's the high school Harrys who become juvenile delinks at the cinema in these parts. (no, I will not speak at the next PTA meeting!)

I understand that Laddie, the long-eared doorman at the Stocking Shop, has been subdued by the local gendarmerie. Canyamagine! A carniverous cocker yet!

What else can I say about the Kawps? Oh, yes, there's a certain Carmel fella what doesn't get a ducat when he overparks. I mean consistently. He either better start parking right or else he better get tagged now and then. Or I'll start holding my nose in print.

Last week I think I mentioned Dick Beardslee's dog, "Carmichael." Dick says everybody heard about "Mike," but hell no one knows he went into the weather-stripping business lately. Try fone-in 1676-R.

MORAN GRANT NUPTIALS at MISSION

Helen Moran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick Moran, of Dobbs Ferry, New York, became the bride of Alan Francis Grant, of San Francisco, at nuptial mass performed Saturday morning at Mission San Carlos in Carmel. The Reverend Father Joseph O'Gara of San Francisco performed the service and was assisted by his brother, Father Donald O'Gara. Another brother, Francis B. O'Gara, served as best man.

The altar was decorated with white stocks and tall tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina length gown of creme net and antique embroidery over creme slipper satin. A tiny cap of matching antique embroidery held her illusion veil in place, and she carried a prayer book marked with creme cimbidium orchids.

Mrs. Francis B. O'Gara (the former Peggy Smith, of New York, whose marriage took place just a year ago), of San Francisco, was the bride's only attendant. Her gown was of saphire blue taffeta with which she wore a cloche of mauve feathers and carried a French bouquet of mauve and violet.

A reception for family members and a few intimate friends was held at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach. There the couple cut their three-tier wedding cake and were toasted in champagne. The Indian Room was decorated with white chrysanthemums and tapers.

The bride, whose parents, the William Patrick Morans, came west from Dobbs Ferry, New York, to attend their only daughter's wedding, is a graduate of Ursuline Academy in Manhattan and the College of Mt. St. Vincent in Riverdale. She also attended the Packard School and Traphagen School of Design.

The groom is the son of Mrs. John Joseph Grant, of San Francisco, and the late Mr. Grant. His sister is Miss Elsie Grant of the same city. He is a graduate of St. Ignatius High School, received his A.B. and L.L.B. degrees at the University of San Francisco. During the war he served with the Eighth Air Force as a captain in the United States Strategic Air Force in Europe.

Following a Monterey Peninsula honeymoon the couple will make their home in San Francisco, where they have taken a Sacramento Street apartment.

PAPER BAGS, BEER CANS, ETCETERA

"The streets along Ocean Avenue above Junipero are a disgrace to the village, with papers of all kinds---big and little, strewn all along the pavements; paper napkins, paper bags, gum wrappings, beer cans, etc., etc..."

This was the way one of our readers this week described the conditions of the streets in her neighborhood. She asks us to pass The Word along to Carmel residents who walk or drive up and down Ocean Avenue, and she emphasizes the fact that the street has become much more littered since the start of the school year.

While we do not point an exclusive finger at Carmel High School students, it seems that in Carmel, of all towns, residents should have more than their share of civic pride.

It's easy to say to yourself that one little piece of paper thrown on the sidewalk or in the gutter will not matter - after all, we have a street cleaning service - but think it over for a minute.

If everyone in Carmel were to wad up a piece of scrap paper and throw it into the street; and if everyone did this simultaneously, it would look as though Carmel had been struck by snow-a blizzard.

Individual effort is the most rewarding and worthwhile, and individual effort will keep our streets clean. W. H. M.

It was erroneously stated in this column last week that certain members of the Board of Directors of the Monterey County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had resigned their positions after being asked to do so by a groupof members several weeks ago. Only one member has resigned and it was not because of the circumstances described above, according to King Mederos vice-president of the Board of Directors. - Ed.

Business Personalities

FRITZ WURZMANN

Fritz Wurzmann, owner of Wurzmann Typewriter Exchange in Monterey, has been a Carmel resident since 1927. His early life could have in no way foretold what his mode of living would be now.

Born in Frankfort-On-The-Main, Germany, in 1896, he is a graduate engineer with a Master's degree from the college at Stuttgart. During World War I he served as a lieutenant in the tank corps of the German army, and was for several years associated with German General Electric. At the suggestion of his cousin, Dr. Amelia L. Gates, then residing in Carmel, he moved to the United States in 1925 and went to work as a mechanic for the Singer Sewing Machine Co. in New Jersey. Later he was employed as a mechanical engineer with Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co. and United Engineering and Foundry Co. in Pittsburgh.

When he finally decided to visit his cousin, Dr. Gates (who, incidentally, passed away in Carmel two years ago), he bought a round-trip ticket to the peninsula, but he still carries the return stub. He liked it here, decided to stay, and purchased the former Peninsula Typewriter Exchange. With no business experience to draw from, he built the store up from a small operation and now has a modern building on Alvarado Street in Monterey. The growth of the business made it necessary for him to move four times.

Mr. Wurzmann's interest in music while in Carmel proved thoroughly profitable. While at a concert about 15 years ago he met Miss Marjorie Legge, Berkeley concert pianist, and they were married in 1934. As Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann, she now has two daughters, Renee, 11½, and Andrea, 4½, and her concert work has been uninterrupted. Peninsula music lovers will recall her recent success in a recital for the Musical Art Club.

Mr. Wurzmann's sister, Miss Liesel Wurzmann, has been residing in Carmel since 1934.

Mr. Wurzmann was naturalized as a U.S. citizen in 1931 and reports that he has no desire to revisit Germany. His favorite sports are trout fishing (which he indulged in Wyoming last July and skiing.

His affiliations on Monterey Peninsula include the Carmel Music Society, Kiwanis Club, Monterey History and Art Association, and Monterey County Symphony Association.

He prefers this part of the country because it is "younger and the people are more friendly." None is more friendly than Mr. Wurzmann.

How To Get An Ambulance

In order to avoid delay or misunderstanding at the time of an emergency, Fred Mylar, chairman of the Red Cross ambulance service, asks that everyone acquaint himself with the following:

1. FOR OUTSIDE EMERGENCIES: Telephone Carmel 100 (Firehouse), in case of serious accident or sudden attack of illness not in a home. When information about a patient is unknown and doctor is not available, be sure to state this clearly, also the nature of the emergency necessitating an ambulance, and exact location. The name and telephone number of person calling will expedite service.
2. TRANSPORTATION FROM HOME OR HOSPITAL: Necessary transportation, as well as arrangements with the hospital need to be made by your own doctor. In case of accident or sudden illness at home, call your doctor first.

To whom is Red Cross ambulance service offered? As the ambulance is one of the services of the Carmel Red Cross, it is available to anyone who is within the chapter territory (which includes Carmel Valley and Big Sur area).

To what hospitals will it go? The ambulance will transport patients from their homes or scene of accident to either the Peninsula Community Hospital, Monterey Hospital, or Monterey County Hospital in Salinas.

Type of calls: THIS IS AN EMERGENCY AND LOCAL SERVICE ONLY. Longer trips to hospitals other than the above should be arranged through a commercial ambulance service. This policy is necessary as longer trips would interfere with the availability of the Red Cross ambulance for local and emergency needs. Anyone unable to finance needed ambulance service to distant hospitals should contact the Home Service Department of the Carmel Chapter.

Manpower: Remember that the ambulance is staffed by volunteer ambulance drivers who are volunteer firemen with special training in first aid and ambulance service.

Cost: All Red Cross ambulance service is given without charge. Costs are met by your voluntary donations to the Carmel Red Cross.

For further information please do not hesitate to call the office of the Carmel Red Cross (382) or the Carmel Fire Department (100).

Blame Middleman, Not Farmer For Prices, Says Congressman

Says Growers Get Small Cut Of High Cost of Foodstuffs

SPECIAL TO THE SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON—It remained for a congressman from a farm area to tell the city folk what was behind some of the high prices they are paying for food.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R), Nebraska, says the middleman is responsible. Miller said his colleagues, who represent consumers in the east, often blame farmer constituents for high prices. The farmer, he contended, was being unjustly accused. Backing his contention, Miller pointed out that, while eggs are 85 to 90 cents a dozen in the city, the farmer receives only 35 cents a dozen. Delivered milk is 21 cents or more a quart, while the farmer gets eight cents.

Rep. A. L. Miller

Miller added that bread and related products have gone up in price in the face of a 30 per cent decline in wheat, corn and other grains. Someone is to blame, asserted Miller, but not the farmer.

● JETS—Aviation authorities predict that a 500-mile-an-hour jet transport plane will be in operation in the United States within 18 months. Boeing Aircraft corporation now has advanced jet-type transports on its drawing boards, based on experience with the successful Air Force XB-47 stratojet.

Company officials say that "a fleet of jets could effectively serve up to 90 per cent of available domestic airline traffic, at a greater profit and speed potential than either turbo-prop or conventional airliners."

Great Britain plans to place jet transports in operation by 1953 and United States air leaders are determined to beat back the British bid for superiority in that field. Meanwhile, the Air Force's newest experimental jet bomber, the XB-51, is ready for testing.

The three-jet light bomber is designed for short range tactical missions in support of ground forces and is the plane demanded by Army chiefs.

● FRUITS OF DEFEAT—President Truman may not have gotten his choice confirmed as chairman of the Munitions Board, but the rejection of steel executive Carl A. Ilgenfritz apparently helped his executive pay measure through the Senate.

Ilgenfritz was turned down by the Senate because it refused to condone an arrangement whereby a United States Steel vice president would have continued to receive his $70,000 a year company salary while serving the government at $14,000 a year.

The big point was that Ilgenfritz, who "came up the hard way," could not afford to give up his private salary to take the government job. Senator Russell Long (D), Louisiana, called attention to this situation as a demonstration of Mr. Truman's inability to get topnotch men because government pay is lower than that of private industry. The argument apparently carried weight. The bill boosting top government officials salaries was approved by the Senate.

● A CHUCKLE FOR THE COURT—Most of the cases which make their way to the Supreme Court are dry and weighty. However, occasionally one comes along with aspects which provide a chuckle for the staid justices.

Inalienable Right to Play Poker?

For instance, there's the indignant appeal of the Menlo Association club of San Francisco, before the high tribunal. The club was raided and several of its members arrested by police acting under an anti-gambling ordinance.

After losing out in efforts to get "justice" in the lower courts, the club took its case to the high court, with the declaration that the right to play poker "is a fundamental right of free men."

The club's attorneys asserted that "a substantial constitutional question" is involved in their case and attacked as "archaic" the 1903 law under which the club was raided.

They said: "Changed conditions will no longer permit it to be said that free men may not play draw poker or draw low ball poker in a social club or private home."

The Carmel Way... by CAROLYN ELSTOB

The Monterey Peninsula Country Club Hallowe'en Howl will be an all day, all evening affair. Sunday, October 30, will be known to all members as Crazy Costume Day. Costumes are in order for the mixed foursomes, for luncheon and for the roast beef dinner. With buffet reservations limited to 200, the Secret Committee urges early action. There will be dancing in the lounge, and prizes for the craziest costumes, barring Schiaparelli, John Frederick or Brooks Brothers originals.

Cards are out for Gray Burnham's dinner party to be held at the Navy Club preceding the Senior Assembly dance which will be at the Forest Hill Hotel, Pacific Grove, on Saturday evening.

Robin Burnham, who will be 11 years old on Tuesday, the 25th, will celebrate her birthday this Saturday afternoon with a skating party at Skateland in Pacific Grove.

A grand letter from Gay Kuster (Mrs. Edward Golden Bough Kuster) from Los Angeles, where all the family is staying until December. "Plans," writes Gay, "for the new Golden Bough fill every minute of Ted's time, and it's all going ahead famously. We feel that the Golden Bough should belong to the people of Carmel and that's what we are working toward. Marcia is in school here, and Colin has a job with the Automobile Club. Ted has made a splendid recovery from his operation of last summer... our love to Carmel."

Mr. and Mrs. John Montague and Mr. and Mrs. Armin Hansen will be the dinner guests of Mrs. Jane Reilly this evening in her new Pebble Beach home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ralke, of Beverly Hills, came into the SPECTATOR office the other day to tell us that they wanted the paper sent them each week. "We are building our new home in Carmel Hills, hope to be in it before the first of the year, and we want, in the meantime, to keep abreast with Carmel activities," said Mr. Ralke.

Mrs. C. W. Kraul and Mrs. Esther H. Kopke entertained last week for Mrs. Robert White, of Honolulu, and her sister, Mrs. Oliver Lyman, of San Francisco, who were the house-guests of Major-General E. W. Fales and Mrs. Fales, of Monterey. Mrs. White came from the Islands as a delegate to the Trienniel Convention of the Episcopal Church.

Dr. Gordon Ridgley Parker and Hal Boyd, of Carmel Highlands, had the Parker station wagon loaded to the top with fishing tackle, guns and camping kit when they started off last Thursday for Sonora County. As yet we haven't heard the results in fish and game, but all Carmel knows they're mighty hunters.!

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Hughes are in San Francisco where the doctor is attending the National Dental Convention.

Mrs. Frank G. Ringland, of Carmel, is visiting in San Francisco this week.

Abbe - O'Mahoney Wed Saturday

Patience, daughter of James (Round the World in 11 Years) Abbe, of Carmel, and Mrs. Polly Abbe, of Santa Cruz, was married last Saturday afternoon to Michael O'Mahoney.

In the Carmel Point home of the James Tyson's the simple ceremony, before the flower banked fireplace, was performed by Dr. K. Filmore Grey, of the Church of the Wayfarer. Attending the bride were Miss Betty Lou Gloyd, of Kansas City, the bride's two small sisters, Tille and Linda Abbe, and Master David Stewart Tyson. James Tyson acted as best man.

Attending the ceremony and reception were Commander and Mrs. George Luker, Mrs. Katherine O'Neil and her son, Captain Alix O'Neil, Richard Tregoning, William Eklund, Glenn Mitchner, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Swim, Mr. and Mrs. John Montague, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Marquard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Emory, Axel Adler, of Gutenburg, Sweden, Mrs. Martha O'Shea, of Denver, Colorado, and Mrs. Helen Clemente, of San Francisco. Also John and Richard Abbe, brothers of the bride, now attending Stanford University.

"It is perfect that Patience and Michael should be married here," said Mrs. Tyson, "because it was before our fireplace at a New Year's party that the romance started."

Following a wedding trip the young couple will reside in San Francisco.

THE CHALMERS SISTERS present:"

Television audiences will soon be seeing the above legend on half hour motion pictures "designed and built" here on the peninsula by the Chalmers Sisters, of Carmel.

The "Charming Chalmers" I calls 'em. Vital, young, eager, brilliant—their work may well bring this area into national prominence as a leading Television center.

It's the old "Carmel story"—they came so that Dorothea might rest after a serious accident had hospitalized her for a year, and of course they decided to stay "forever."

You'd like Dorothea and Vernona Chalmers. A background of writing, radio and movie work has fitted them for their latest excitement — these shorts in color and sound. They may scoop the market when television goes to color.

At Universal Studios Dorothea wrote continuity and Vernona was an assistant producer. Both have had literary works published, including Dorothea's historical novel on Samoa and Vernona's collection of poems.

These fabulous gals are now a two-woman movie studio. Dorothea is writer-producer-cameraman, and Vernona is technician, electrician and script girl. Both direct scenes. Their methods are painstaking, accurate, artistic—and their equipment is the finest.

The magnificent Monterey Peninsula is their studio, and their actors are Peninsula residents. Their venture here roughly parallels the beginning of the motion picture industry in Hollywood, tho heaven forbid that story being repeated here!

But "the play's the thing," and they have two nearly finished: One is "Ladisla," a story dealing with commercial fishing in Monterey, featuring luscious Ladisla Narvaez and "Loveable Lou" Allaire—and the other is "Papa Says No," with Noel Sullivan, Lee Crowe, Arnold Ford and Leon Panetta, the 10-year-old piano prodigy—all of Carmel Valley. Mr. Sullivan's beautiful home was used for interior shots.

All I gotta say is: "bravo et encore, Chalmers Sisters!"

M-m-m-m-m!

Another exciting art came to Carmel recently. Or at least, as practiced by Mrs. Munthe Einstad, it becomes an art. She's the lady who makes those superb Scandinavian fancy pastries now displayed at the new Mission Market in Carmel. She calls her bailiwick: "The Skandia Cookie Jar and Delicacy"—an odd name, but a monument of understatement.

It's no wonder her "goodies" seem so inspired—after majoring in dietetics at the University of Oslo, she won a scholarship to France, Germany or America. Choosing us (naurally), she spent 10 years as food expert at Frederick & Nelson — meanwhile dreaming up her special arrangements of such lyrical delights as Napoleon Hats, Berlinerkrantz, French fresh fruit tarts, marmalade bread, Brandy snaps and countless other gastronomical harmonies which keep her customers singing her praises.

Her habit of giving away cookies to Carmel youngsters indicates that she's here, as she says, "not to make a lot of money, but to make a lot of friends." Please, just leave the plate of cookies right here, Mrs. Einstad! And then I'll have a piece of your lemon chiffon pie, and go to pieces completely!

BIGGERNBETTER

Looks like expansion is setting in at the El Paseo Beauty Studio. Mrs. Patterson announces the addition to her staff of Mr. Tak, hair stylist from Honolulu and Miss Terry, tint expert from S. F. Incidentally, the Studio does the lush hair styling for the Pine Inn Fashion Show, too.

NIX CLIX!

It isn't enough that Joanne Nix of the dance studio of the same name goes around captivating people all over the place, but husband Dudley Nix has to cinch their popularity by doing the same at the Casa Munras. He does it by providing a warm, friendly atmosphere at the Casa, and by such rare treats as his Gourmet salad dressing, and the roast prime ribs of beef. Bully!

HELP! STATISTICS AGAIN!

Don Sands of The House that Jack Built says you just gotta know that every watch has in its mechanism a train, a barrel, an arbor and a crown! I was overwhelmed. Says the beat of a wrist watch is 18,000 per hour! Well I just never would have believed it. But all by myself I found out that a human heartbeat is 4,167 per hour (unless in love) and that the heart pumps 5,000 gallons of blood daily —that is if you have any.

Thasall!

SYMPHONY GROUP in Membership Drive

An intensive membership drive for the Monterey County Symphony Association opens this week, it is announced by Col. Paul Schneeberger, who, in stating the aims of the Association and the urgency of the Drive, says, "The Monterey County Symphony Association, a civic organization that is making a unique contribution to the culture and education of our community, is urgently in need of your support. Destined to add to the enviable reputation of Carmel, to all Monterey County, in much the same way as the Carmel Bach Festival has added to our stature, the orchestra comprises amateur and professional musicians who come here from all parts of the Peninsula and from as far as King City and Hollister for weekly rehearsals and the several concerts of the season. The management, as well as performers, operate as a non-profit organization, on a volunteer basis, musicians being reimbursed in the past only for traveling expenses.

The budget required for this year's operation will be applied to the continued development of the orchestra, the purchase of symphonic scores and special instruments; and to pay small rehearsal fees to those musicians who are under sacrifice in giving of their time and effort.

Invitations to join the Association are being sent out this week. The general public is urged to join one of the following classes of membership: Life membership: $100 or more; Sustaining: $25 to $100 per year; Active: $10 to $25 per year; Associate: $2 to $10 per year.

Checks should be sent to the Treasurer, Monterey County Symphony Association, P.O.Box 1856, Carmel, Calif.

A series of three concerts are scheduled for Carmel and additional performances are planned for Salinas. Season tickets for the series are offered for $3.60. They may be secured from the Treasurer by members of the Association as well as those who have not contributed to the Symphony."

Discerning Discs

By Henry Dunakin

A couple of years ago Parlophone released the complete recording of Belluni's "Norma." It was heralded as the new milestone in operatic discography inasmuch as the composition itself was of highest merit, the cast ideally placed and the engineering just about the finest ever achieved. With Cigna in the title role and Stignani as Adalgisa, lovers of the Italianate aria received interpretations of fidelity. Breviario and Pasero, tenor and basso respective, provided the perfect balance. This outstanding performance has now been converted to Cetra LP and all praises usually attributed to the slower speed are more than amply substantiated.

DONIZETTI

For sheer beauty of song, faithful dramatic expression, and the peak in recorded clarity there is little to surpass the new recording of Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" (Cetra-LP). Pagliughi as Lucia and Malipiero as Edgardo hold the most important places in the plot and their voices are of such calibre as to carry the ever-fresh melodies in a style seldom achieved today. The famous sextet comes off with deep sonority, allowing every voice to hold its full play. Lucia's Mad Scene remains as true as its accompanying flute, while Edgardo's lament and suicide prove Malipiero to be a master of his field. With properly controlled volume the entire recording reaches opera-size dimensions. In short, "Lucia" rightly earns top place on every shelf!

For its introduction to the American markets, Champrosay has chosen Milhaud's "L'Homme et son Desir," a ballet for orchestra, dancers and voice. The setting is to a poem of Paul Claudel, and the inspiration was from one of Nijinski's last performances in Rio immediately prior to his tragic illness. Scored for a quartet of voices, 12 solo instruments and 15 percussions, it depicts the green forests of Brazil, capturing the extraordinary sounds at the close of day. "L'Homme's" premiere performance was in 1921. Ears unaccustomed to the extreme dissonances of modern music will certainly have a rough time listening to this teeming hodge-podge; however, if you have run the gamut of such cacophanies as the "Pierot Lunaire" by Schoenberg, or the "Suite Lyrique" by Alban Berg, you can perceive a fleck of beauty and a robust portion of excitement. These two discs are pressed on vinylite and come in automatic sequence, quite an innovation for the French manufacturers. Perhaps they, too, will soon be releasing LP's.

FASHIONS WITH A FUTURE SHOWN AT PINE INN

In her presentation of clothes for the Peninsula Scene Harriet Duncan emphasizes easy wearable sports togs, mixed and matched, impeccably tailored in richly textured tweeds, flannels, jersey and corduroy... For cocktails, for formal evenings, velveteen or taffeta...lush colors, daring contrasts were highlighted. Models shown: Susan Grimsley, Mrs. Ted Hare, Elizabeth Harnish, Connie Devereaux, Mimi Townsend, Sally Manier.

Once Upon a Time

By Alexander Victor

This is going to be the tale of how I worked my way in and out of college.

It started in school when I was about eight years old at the time I had a trick tooth. It bled very badly...so I put it to work. "Never," I said to myself, "waste material or opportunity." This is a maxim I have followed over the years.

Therefore when I became too bored with school I would take out my usually very clean handkerchief and smear it with blood. Then I would simulate a paroxysm of coughing. The teacher would come to see what was the matter and see the blood. "Go home," she said. "At once. Tell your mother to take you to the doctor."

AND THEN I WOULD GO FISHING

This, if I remember correctly, worked three times. Then the teacher came over to see my mother. Mother said she didn't know anything about my tubercular condition, but spoke to father about it. Father asked me to come to his study. "Son," he said, "You seem to be in trouble and your mother is worried. Now tell me all about it." Well, I had read that fallacious story about George Washington never having told a lie, so I thought I would try it for once. So I told him the truth. My mistake. He took me to the dentist and they removed the tooth.

Tempus fugit. I finally landed in college. I still did not like school or education. With a world so full of joy and sunshine why waste the hours sitting on a hard chair listening to a lot of drivel uttered by some old fogies?, I asked myself. They must have been anywhere around 25 or 30, but at the time they seemed to me 100 years old.

Well, they have had their revenge. I am 70 at this writing and I feel 100.

It seems that over the years I had developed a sense of humour. Every time anything struck me funny I laughed hard and loud. Even the way my teachers walked seemed funny. To this my teachers objected. I really tried to cure myself of the habit of laughing at things. I finally had a brilliant idea. When I felt like laughing I tried to imagine how sad it would be if my mother died. I could see her in my mind's eye in her coffin and could hear the spadesfull of earth filling her grave. This worked for a while and then I became inured to the idea. I then buried my father also. Then my brother. I buried all my relatives. Then I gave up. Seeing my mother every day, hale and hearty, my father with all his silly notions, and my brother, the stinker, took away the effect of my imaginary play.

SO THEY EXPELLED ME

I tried unsuccessfully to keep this to myself, but the glad news had preceded me and when I got home father had a talk with me. He said, "What is the matter with you? Don't you want an education? For two cents," he continued, "I will let you become a horny-handed son of..." Here he hesitated, but finally compromised by saying, "son of toil."

A few days later father told me he had found an excellent job for me in the journalistic field. He said that he had found a man foolish enough to accept me as assistant editor on a local newspaper. I was to report for work the next morning at nine o'clock. This editorship, I found, consisted in delivering copies of the paper at various homes and business offices. This became very wearing after the first month and, unknown to my father, I called on the headmaster of the school.

"Sir," I said, "I have arrived at a point in life where I am able to return to the somewhat boresome, but preferable, task of acquiring an education."

"Well," he suggested, "If you will promise to show proper respect to your teachers and if you will persuade your father to secure the services of a private tutor until you catch up with the curriculum of your class, we will take you back."

I told father and he agreed. So I plugged away for a few weeks and then I returned to college.

(To be concluded next week)

Letter

Dear Editor,

Am enclosing letter received today from a guest of long standing. It should be of interest at this time.

Harold P. Brown.

Stonehouse
Carmel

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Brown:

Thank you again for another grand weekend. We enjoyed every minute of it, particularly the golf matches.

We were much disturbed over your difficulties with the Council for, as you know, we have been Carmel boosters for many years. It seemed cruel to see you forced to turn people away when rooms were available for them. We have met many charming people at Stonehouse and have always felt it was a part of the Village.

Saturday night we had dinner in a restaurant in Carmel which has always been crowded before, particularly over this weekend. We found only one table occupied and the waitress explained that business had decreased at an alarming rate since the Council's action was taken. A tour of the Village after dinner revealed this condition to be quite general. Certainly the individuals or groups sponsoring this unfortunate action have been grossly mis-informed, or possibly do not have the general welfare of Carmel at heart.

Sincerely,
Merritt Sanford.

Mother of Small Children Is Under a Continual Strain

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

ANY mother with two or three little children close in age is under a physical and emotional strain such as few fathers realize. Usually she does all the housework besides caring for and managing these youngsters. If she can stand it she may do better by the children to leave them more to themselves.

"Dear Dr. Myers: We have two boys, aged 27 months and 14 months. It's a busy time. My biggest problem currently is to keep both of them occupied. What one does the other must do. In fact, the elder boy is imitating the younger, and I thought it would be the reverse. On occasion the elder will even climb into the baby's high chair and chatter incoherently.

Poise and Serenity

"You often emphasize poise and serenity in the mother to promote calmness in the young child. How is that to be accomplished? My own experience is that once I get up steam I have to hold the rapid pace all day to get even the minimum of work accomplished. Theoretically, a calm attitude and a rapid pace should not be incompatible, but to achieve this combination another theory is necessary."

Substantially, I replied: I just wish I could do more to make the burdens of you mothers lighter. In your place, I can't imagine any of us fathers doing as well as you do or being so calm. Don't be too hard on yourself for being jittery at times. Of course, any planning of your work and of the management of these youngsters that can reduce the strain on you should be very desirable.

Periods of Peace

Please try to let more things around the house go and not to be worried as you do. Expect a lot of conflicts between these two little children. Be happy over the short periods of blissful peace. Aim first to establish some effective controls over each of them so they will acquire a few essential inhibitions. By now the older boy must have learned to avoid a few forbidden objects and acts. Train the younger in this direction, too, especially to respect the rights and possessions of the elder. Don't expect the elder always to give up to the younger.

When matters grow very tense, sit down and rock and cuddle the elder and read to him. The younger may then listen some, too. The elder supposes he does not get as much fondling and attention as the younger, evidenced by his pretending to be the baby.

When Dad is home, he should take over these children most of the time, reading to the elder, explaining things to him, making things with or for him and the younger, walking with them, and guiding them in having good times with each other. Also he should help see them off to bed and help care for them at night. This would not only lessen the strain on you but would also afford rich companionship of the father with these little boys.

Of course, you might not be able to get Dad to share so generously by telling him he should. You might, however, win him in your persuasive, lovely way, to do so, especially as you express generous appreciation of such cooperation in him.

BOOK REVIEW

BY MAXWELL CARNSON

THE WILL AND THE WAY
By J.M.Scott (Dutton $2.75)

Take an old family house in the Highlands of Scotland, where Roderick Haughton, commonly called 'Himself', lives alone. Add five of his nephews from various parts of England; an architect, a lawyer, a doctor, a man-about-town, and a writer. Mix these family ingredients thoroughly over the problem of 'Himself' and his last Will and Testament. Remove the chief ingredient, ('Himself') by his timely but unexpected death, and scatter the remainder of the mixture in five different directions among the valleys and mountains of the Swiss Alps.

Such is the recipe of J. M. Scott's amusing, exciting and colorful story of the eccentric 'Himself', who leaves to each of his five nephews a separate clue to the discovery of his hidden fortune.

From that point begins an exciting treasure hunt in five different directions through Switzerland, with each of the competitive cousins following his own line of thought, and his own private clue, in characteristic style. Maurice, the writer cousin, who has resigned his personal interest in the fortune-hunting, follows up each of the hunters to report and collate their adventures in this story.

With this fascinating material, completely on the lines of the old fairy-tale of the sons who go forth to find a treasure and a princess, the author feasts us on a mixture of humor, psychology, mountaineering and romance, for in the end one of the cousins completes the old story in true fairy-tale fashion by winning a bride from his journeyings. The lost treasure becomes a suitable wedding present from its lucky finder to the bridal pair.

THE WILL AND THE WAY is one of the most refreshing, intriguing problematic novels of this year. It has the clean tang of the Swiss mountains, the pawky humor of the Highlander, the excitement of the chase and the interplay of family relationships throughout, to make a fully satisfying meal.

The real hero of the story, the deceased 'Himself', who collected recipes of bizarre cookery from all the countries of his travels, certainly contrived his most intriguing dish when he devised the Will and mixed up the Way to win his fortune.

Wedding At St. John's Chapel

On Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 19, Rosemary Branco became the bride of Lt. Henry C. Morris, at St. Johns Chapel, Del Monte. The Chapel was beautifully decorated in palms and chrysanthemums. The Rev. Theodore Bell officiated at the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Branco, wore a full skirted gown of heavy white satin. Her finger tip veil was trimmed in Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of shattered white chrysanthemums and bouvardia, centered with a white orchid. Mrs. Barbara Dawson served as matron of honor, wearing a gown of crushed rose, with full faille skirt and lace bodice and matching faille mits. She carried a bouquet of deep rose shattered chrysanthemums. This flower was also used in forming her matching hat.

The best man was Alfred Watson, of Monterey, and guests were shown to their seats by Walton De Rome and Mark Dawson. "Oh, Perfect Love" and "Ave Maria" were sung by the soloist.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the banquet room of Cademartori's, where dinner was served to family members and close friends of the couple, at which time the traditional wedding cake was cut and champagne served.

After a honeymoon trip, destination undisclosed, the newlyweds will make their home in Monterey. In November the groom will leave for Yokohama, Japan, where he will serve with the Engineers Corps, U. S. Army. The bride will join him there shortly after the first of the year.

For traveling, the bride wore a dress of fuschia crepe, set off by a neck piece of Kolinsky furs. The balance of her accessories were black and her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs A. L. Branco, of Merced, and the late A. L. Branco of that city. She attended schools in Merced, and for the past nine years has been office manager of Minick's of Monterey. She has one brother, J. L. Branco, of Pacific Grove, and a sister, Mrs. Malcolm Beavers, of Merced. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Morris, of Hollywood, and has four brothers, Randolph and James, of Los Angeles; Joseph, of Corpus Christi, Texas, and Jack, of Dallas, Texas. He also has a sister, Mrs. Curtis Fenton, of Dallas. He attended schools in San Antonio, Texas, and Compton College, Calif.

Words of the Wise

When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a forward child, that must be played with and humoured a little to keep it quiet till it falls asleep, and then the care is over.

Scriptures—Isaiah 1:21-28; 10; 13; 19:19-25; 31.

The princes of the city of Jerusalem are rebellious, the Lord told Isaiah, and companions of thieves every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards.

I will restore thy judges and thy counsellors as at the beginning, afterward thou shalt be called the city of righteousness, a faithful town.

Jehovah shall be known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know Jehovah in that day, and shall vow a vow unto Jehovah, and shall perform it.

In that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and with Assyria, and a blessing in the midst of the earth, MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 2:4.

Monterey Meanderings

by IVY LAUER, SPECTATOR CORRESPONDENT

News from the General Line School is quite heavy this week. The Navy Wives of section B-4 put on a delightful fashion show Wednesday afternoon at the school with Irene's Shop, The Cinderella Shop and Betty Brickman showing the fashions. To your reporters' eye an outstanding outfit was modeled by Mrs. G. A. Sundquist. It was a travel coat from Cinderella Shop. A Forstmann Tweed Coachman style by Adele of California. It was, as the commentator, Mrs. E. C. Miller, appropriately put it . . . a thoroughbred! The colors . . . a combination of neutrals, brown, grey and beige. A convertible neckline that can be worn with either the full reverse of coachman style . . . anywho . . . this was good . . . The attractive Navy wives, models who changed miraculously 48 times, were Mrs. J. F. Walters, Mrs. G. A. Sundquist, Jr., Mrs. R. A. Harris, Mrs. R. A. Mohle, Mrs. C. A. Andrews, Mrs. J. T. Revis, Mrs. Joseph Cady, Mrs. Joseph Rezzardy, Jr., Mrs. C. R. Anderson, Mrs. J. C. Fifield, Mrs. F. C. Wiseman and Mrs. E. T. Bennett. The luncheon was a monthly affair at GLS and at the conclusion announcements were about these interesting coming events. The next Women's Club luncheon in November would be a crazy hat affair . . a prize going to the craziest chapeau and the most original. On the 3, 4, 5 of November the dramatic group at GLS would present the play "Torch Bearers," directed by Dan Totheroh. Tickets will be on sale on the ship's service store.

Thursday night, speaking of the Navy . . . was the opening night of "A Night in the Bali Room" . . . at this point all that is necessary is that a laughing time was had by all . . . Pictures elsewhere on this page . . .

Al Eplett and Chuck Lincoln, both of Monterey . . .were awarded first prize in the inter-region contest sponsored by the Mission Creameries. The banquet, held Thursday last at Casa Munras was in honor of top sales promotional ideas for the creamery . . . we are told a good time was enjoyed by all.

The Women's Association of the Presbyterian Church had a most successful rumage sale Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week.

The Walter Colton School is having an International Pot Luck Supper tonight . . . 6:30 with Glenn T. Goodwill speaking and showing a film. Supper at the school. By the way, their recent drive for PTA membership was a highly successful deal.

The BPW of Monterey listened to Mrs. W. R. Holman a week ago tonight at the Bamboo Gardens where they had their monthly meeting, this time sponsoring National Business Women's Week. Mrs. Holman gave some very interesting data on what could be done to maintain the Monterey Peninsula as is!

Understand that the Frank Lloyds are in Hawaii right now . . . they left Monday for that paradise. Flew, too!

Monterey has a Women's Bowling League . . . They meet to bowl every Wednesday eve. at the Monterey Bowling Alley . . . 7:15. They'd like to have spectators come out to cheer them! Well?

Another rummage sale was held . . . this time by the WSCS of the Methodist Church in Seaside. 'Twas held Friday and Saturday.

Speaking of fashion shows . . . there was a huge one at the Casa Munras Tuesday, Oct. 11. In honor of the 10th, 7th and 1st of the Casa, the Doughertys and Wilma Campbell, respectively. The fashions were all outstanding . . . the models lovely . . . present to add a note of definite interest was Indera Devi (pronounced Davv) who is a teacher of Yoga. Grapevine has it she will return to the peninsula to give a series of lex's on that subject. Those wearing the gowns of tomorrow were: Mrs. Francis J. Fitzpatrick, Miss Virginia Ward, Mrs. Ed Garnero, Miss Nancy Polhman, Miss Dale Dawson, Mrs. Jack Hansen, Miss Wilma Tice, Mrs. Dudley Nix, Mrs. George Dovolis, Miss Virginia Petersen, Mrs. Al Elasho, Mrs. Margaret Parkhurst, Miss Melodi Brien and Mrs. Ray Ramsey. Each model had her own individual style and certainly did justice to each outfit she donned. Attention was caught by Mrs. Ramsey's coiffure that evening . . . it was "done" by Henry (who accomplished the unusual in all heads who modeled) and is called a "Sophisticated Shingle." Tres delightful. The lovely Autumn floral arrangements were accomplished by NB's of Carmel.

A boquet to the San Carlos Mothers Club! We hear that group served 300 children at a recent Friday breakfast.

Jean Nelson . . . one of the queen runners-up in the recent Reina de Monterey contest just flew (more flying!) to Hollywood to see her mother, Mrs. Vivian Tennant.

There's a new theater group on the peninsula . . . The Peninsula Stock Players . . . to be run just like a real Summer Stock . . . only this organization won't be seasonal . . . all the time . . . Headed by Dan Totheroh . . . the Thesbians are going to do "Seven Keys to Baldpate" as their first undertaking. More power to 'em.

Speaking of theaters . . . The Forest Theater Guild (yes, I know . . .this isn't exactly Meandering thru Monterey . . but it is nooz) deserves a beeg pat on the back . . . Three performances of "Stage Door" will be given and all for the Community Chest. When? 27, 28, 29 of October . . . Place? Sunset School Auditorium.

TV is coming up in Monterey . . . We hear that Telemir has received their first TV run back from whom ever sends the films back . . .they tell us it looks good . . . They've already completed their second run . . . are working on the third . . . but, the big news is that TV is on the Peninsula! . . . Congrats.

Whatcha think of this? "Virtue . . . though in rags will keep me warm" . . . (I didn't say it . . . some guy by the name of Dryden did.)

And yet another rummage sale transpired last week . . . this one was accompanied by a luncheon . . . was given by the Court Carmel Mission of the Catholic Daughters of America at the Grange Hall in Seaside . . . Friday and Saturday. Ever been to a rummage sale?

Have you been to Henry Dunakin's music class held every Tuesday eve. at the MPC? If you haven't you are missing something that is quite worthwhile . . . at least attendance has increased so much that it's most talked about thing 'round here. It isn't the usual riffling thru concert selections and composers . . . 'tis fun . . . besides being musical . . . make sense? Try it . . . some evening, (Tuesdays, that is) Monterey Peninsula College 8 o'clock.

New Monterey Branch library has a fascinating idea . . . A story hour for kiddies of school age every Saturday A. M. 10:30 to 11:30. Miss Ruth Woods, the librarian at Prescott and Lane travels (vicariously) with her attentive group . . .

Who IS this guy who appears about three in the afternoon looking as though he was really tired? Oh you see him everywhere . . . if you know who it is . . . let me know . . . huh? By the way . . . as long as you've read thus far . . . you must have found something to maintain your interest.

Did you see the USS Carmick buzz into Monterey harbor this weekend past? She's a stranger to Monterey . . . she's been stationed here several times in the past . . . a mine-sweeper, y'know . . . used as a floating classroom for the students at the Navy General Line School . . . we hear tell she is to be here for an indefinite period . . . along those lines . . . something called a snorkl-submarine is also in port . . . this is a new type . . . not being up on the old types . . . we wouldn't know exactly what this snorkel is. Understand that several hundred peninsulites saw this new thing during the weekend . . . didn't have the chance . . . will somebody give me the info?

Remember the bride accident two weekends ago? Well, Lawrence Balzer, the truck driver was tried on a reckless driver charge last Friday. He appeared before acting Justice Richard Eldred. The court found him guilty . . . fined him $100 and ordered his license suspended for 90 days . . . but the sentence was suspended because Balzer's attorneys notified the court they would appeal to a higher court.

Saw Ellen Leeds at the Navy Club presentation of "A Nite In The Bali Room" . . .she told us she was flying to Los Angeles last weekend . . . let's name the peninsula the fly-ingest place ever!

The beginning of the school year is always marked by renewed activity in Junior Red Cross. The year's first council meeting was held by Carmel High School chapter on Oct. 11. Officers for the year were elected, and plans made for the work to be done in the coming year.

Shirley Elliott was named chairman, Alan Rayburn will serve as vice-chairman, Ann Spurr as secretary and Linda Bain, treasurer. Mary Alice Graces was named "Reporter," Alan Rayburn will act as chairman of water safety and first aid. Peter Lyman heads the committee on services to the armed forces and Sali Dalton is chairman of international services.

It was voted to send delegates to a regional conference which was to be held in Santa Cruz Saturday. Repreeentatives from 12 other counties will be present, and panel discussions will be held covering development of leadership in the schools, participation in overseas activities, aid to hospitalized veterans and international art exhibit exchanges. Linda Bain, Sali Dalton and Peter Lyon will attend from Carmel, accompanied by Mrs. Louise Bournes, Jr., Red Cross sponsor and home economics teacher from the high school.

YOUR TAXES

BY CHARLES W. FLANAGAN

MANAGER OF THE MONTEREY COUNTY TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION

Last week we began an outline of Functional Costs of County Government and called attention to the fact that Charities and Corrections--principally public welfare and public hospitalization--accounted for 58% of all expenditures of Monterey County.

Second in importance is Highways and Bridges, amounting to 13% of total proposed expenditures in the 49-50 budget. Of the $928,378 budgeted for roads and bridges, $551,151 is to be financed from the allocation of State Highway User's (Gas) Tax. The County is also allocating $145,886 from the state subvention "Motor Vehicle in Lieu Tax" for highway purposes. A number of years ago, these latter funds were collected locally as a personal property tax. They are now collected by the state and returned to the counties. They may be used for any county purpose.

Three other state subventions add up to $54,947, bringing the total of state funds available for Monterey County Highway and Bridge programs for 49-50 to $751,984. An additional amount of $97,000 is estimated to become available from local revenues. Sources of the latter are: Traffic fines, rent of equipment, and contract-work for other local governments. July 1, 1949, balance on hand of $74,465 completes the financing of the proposed Highway and Bridge Program.

As you can see, no revenues from property taxes as such, are used for road purposes. However, the use of "in lieu" revenues from the state for road purposes has the effect of increasing local property taxes. This is so because such revenues would otherwise go to the General Fund and thus decrease the amount required to be raised locally to finance other county functions.

Well over a majority of California Counties have found it possible to finance their road programs entirely from State Gas Tax and other miscellaneous state subventions and local revenues without the necessity of levying a road tax or allocating "in lieu" funds to road programs.

This has been possible principally because of large post-war increases in Gas Tax allocations to counties.

Monterey County is in the process of adding its name to the above majority of counties. The program this year is to catch up on deferred projects. When these are completed it seems reasonable to expect further tax relief by the allocation of all "in lieu" subventions to the General Fund.

Soldiers Hurt In Car Crash

Two Ft. Ord soldiers, Cpl. Charles E. Runions, 34, and Pfc. Peter Salazar, were injured just after midnight, Oct. 10, in an automobile accident near the twin bridges of the Salinas River on Highway 1. The car, a 1949 Ford, driven by Cpl. Runions, failed to make a curve in the road. They left the highway, and continued off the road for approximately 170 feet, turning over and over. The car was completely demolished.

Another passenger in the car, Mrs. Marie Wiegel, of Salinas, escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

The scene is from the play "Stage Door," which is to be presented for the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest by Carmel's Forest Theater Guild in three performances, Oct. 27, 28 and 29, in the Sunset School Auditorium. NEW STANFORD CLUB

The alumni of Stanford University now living in the Salinas Valley area have recently formed the Salinas Valley Stanford Club.

The organization will hold its first meeting on Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. at Loma Linda Restaurant, near Watsonville. The theme of the meeting will be football, particularly Big Game. Moving pictures of this year's games will be shown, two Big Game tickets will be given away to some lucky person present, and Mr. Don Liebendorfer, Stanford athletic department's ace publicity director, will be the guest speaker. All former Stanford students, their spouses and guests are invited to attend. Anyone wishing to attend may make reservations with Mr. James A. Armstrong, 143 West Gabilan St., Salinas, on or before Nov. 5.

GSO LAUNCHES NEW MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The Girls' Service Organization of the Monterey USO launched a membership campaign at their recent meeting at the Webster Street Club. Miss Carole Chester, president of the group, was in charge of the meeting.

Each member is to secure a new member during October who will be presented at a dinner-program meeting planned by a group of servicemen for the GSO on Friday, October 28. Miss Barbara Teshke is in charge of the program for the occasion.

The Girls' Service Organization is an international service group with members on many parts of the globe. It was begun early in the war period to help plan and carry out program and entertainment for enlisted personal in USO Clubs.

In the Monterey USO, girls participate in all types of programs. Dances, game tournaments, voice recording, sings, Sunday Night Suppers, card parties, bingo, and a variety of other interests attract the members. Each month a "Queen" who has distinguished herself in altruistic service is honored at a formal dance. Her picture is placed in the "GSO Hall of Fame" at the Monterey USO.

President of the local club is Miss Carole Chester of Carmel; Miss Beth Shinar of Pacific Grove is vice-president; and Miss Evalyn Oldermeyer of Seaside is secretary-treasurer. Betty Jean Gardner, of Pacific Grove, is the editor of the monthly newspaper "The Peninsula Periscope."

Girls who are interested in the work of the GSO may contact any of the officers or call Miss Iris Hall, director of women's activities at the Monterey USO.

MPC Nuggets

By JANE ELLEN PARKER

At a recent Euterpean Society (the college music club) meeting the following students were elected to hold office for the coming year: Pat Pinkston, president; Hilary Carnson, vice-president; Bob Kavaro, treasurer, and Barbara Castro, secretary.

Phil Maribelli, Coleen Dolan, Mary Garland and Bob Littlefield led an all student presentation of MPC's Peninsula Forum of the Air last Tuesday. Several college problems were given a thorough airing.

The Alpha Gamma Sigmas (members of the campus honor society) have elected Clarence Collins, president; Sandra Pope, vice-president; Jeannie Dam, secretary, and Mrs. Willow Dominy, treasurer. Other students in this exclusive brain trust are Helene Bennett, Tom Bottary, Joyce Gillette, David Graft, Carol Hildebrand, Luella Mayer, Heresantny Dermates, Gail Fraities, Joan McGrath, Jacqui Miller, Pat Pinkston and Norma Tuomala.

This certainly seems to be election season. The Associated Women Students held their's last Friday and, in two very close decisions, Joan McGrath defeated Sandra Pope for the office of president, and Jacqui Miller won over Carol Hildebrand for the secretary's job.

JANET BUCHANAN ARNOLD

Mrs. Barbara Riordan has just returned from Washington, D.C., where she visited her uncle, Admiral A. D. Robinson.

Saturday afternoon the fire truck whizzed round and round filled to the brim with happy-faced children and adults trying hard to look as though they were along only for protective reasons...

The Tularcitos Mothers' Bake Sale on Saturday was a great success both from the point of view of contributions and selling.

Betty and Judy Mattart have come back to live in Robles Del Rio. Betty will help her mother, Irene Baldwin, in the real estate office, and Judy is thrilled to go back to school in the valley with all her old (young) friends.

A station wagon topped by two enormous "things" with antlers was watched by all eyes Friday morning. The "things" turned out to have once been an elk and moose respectively, brought down by our own valley hunter, Herb Brownell.

The Phil Terrys are locating in Carmel for the duration of the school year. They expect Tassajara to be ready for guests again by May 1.

Mrs. Philip Wilson is back from the hospital feeling fine and ready to sell a lot of pictures for the Carmel Valley Art Gallery, which opens Saturday, Oct. 29, from 5-9. The first show will be predominately native, with prominent Carmel Valley artists and craftsmen showing.

Sherman Jones, Irene Piazzoni and Vic Silva are back from 10 days hunting in Elko County, where the snow was over two feet deep this early in the season in some spots. They all got deer, but Sherman got the one with the most "points"... The country and characters around Elko are some of the toughest in the west and they all seem glad to be back in gentle Carmel Valley...comparatively speaking, of course....

Bob Jones and Bob Robinson, "Big Bob" of Holman's, journey into Monterey for the evening classes in ceramics at the high school. Some of Bob's candle sticks have to be hidden from the children in the day classes - they are that different and that expressive...

Tonight is the meeting of the wives of the Tularcitos Volunteer Firemen under the temporary chairmanship of Barbara Corrigan. It will be held at the Fire House, which now is almost completely furnished by donations from a grateful public. Bedding, dishes and kitchen utensils and a radio are a few of the still lacking items.

Next Monday the Carmel Valley Horsemens Association meets at Holman's to make plans for the dance Saturday, Oct. 29, and also plan for a big ride Sunday, Dec. 3, when the valley will bulge with a real estate convention weekending here.

There's lots doing at Holman's these days and the many people doing it include Mott Hitchcock, hosting a birthday party: Mr. and Mrs. Model, Dr. and Mrs. Joldesma, Mr. and Mrs. Beyers, Colonel Bellamy, Hazel Watrous, Lt. Bergen Brokaw, the Dudley Swims and Peggy Porter Marquard. Tonight is Chinese dinner and folk dancing comes afterwards. The "Bobs" report an amazing representation of valley folk at the convention in Coronado, which was commented upon also by the National Headquarters of the Hotel Association. Little Bob Mills turned the convention into a giant folk dancing festival one evening.

Cecil Henderson and Mac Ginni went up north with Herb Brownell as far as Banff and Lake Louise. It was 15 below zero one morning, but despite all odds and elements each came home satisfied. Mac Ginni brought back a rocky mountain goat, while Mr. Henderson got an elk and Herb has a big bull moose to his credit.

A lot of new families have recently come to the valley to live. Among them are H. S. Holt, from the Del Monte Line School; William Ingram, A. M. Ash, P. I. Press, Jerry Williamson, John O'Connell and Lieutenant-Colonel Dragstedt.

Peter Henry celebrated his birthday with an ice cream cone party for all the children in his Tularcitos School.

There was a picnic Sunday at Francis Whitaker's valley property for the Carmel Crafts Guild.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S

WHO IS IT?

Mayor William McC. Chapman, of Pacific Grove, is featured in this week's "Who Is It?" He gained his most recent fame by winning the mayoralty of Pacific Grove as a write-in candidate last April, but his past is filled with noted accomplishments and experiences, stemming from the fact that his life has been Army, as was his family's all the way back to his great great grandfather, who was an officer in George Washington's Army of revolutionary times. Born in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, in 1895, Mayor Chapman is the son of Captain and Mrs. William H. H. Chapman, and during his younger years lived in many of the old Army forts of the middlewest and western states, not to mention the Philippines and Hawaiian Islands. While his father was stationed at Monterey Presidio, he attended Pacific Grove High School, where he gained his letters in football, baseball and basketball. These sports he excelled in at West Point, and he also captained the swimming and wrestling teams there. Upon his graduation and appointment as second lieutenant in 1917, he married the former Adaline Dinsmore, of Pacific Grove, in whose family's Pacific Grove home they now reside. Shortly after his marriage, he was sent as aide-de-camp to General William S. Graves, who commanded an AEF force in Siberia. He recalls sitting in on a diplomatic conference with Admiral Kolchak, who at the time headed the Russian government and who was assassinated a few days later. Lieutenant Chapman was stationed in Russia till 1920 through two extremely cold winters. His mode of transportation was a windshield-less motorcycle, notwithstanding the fact that the temperature got as low as 53 degrees below zero. Other officers on the staff at that time were David P. Barrows, later president of University of California, and Robert L. Eichelberger, who was to head Eighth Army in the Pacific during World War II. His next tour of duty took him to the Philippines, accompanied this time by Mrs. Chapman. Upon his return to the States, he was stationed in the Pacific Northwest, and from 1923/28 he was assistant professor of military science and tactics at University of California. Later, as a weapons instructor at Fort Benning, Ga., his assistant commandant was George C. Marshall, while other instructors included Omar Bradley, Joseph Collins and Joseph Stillwell. He and Mrs. Chapman moved around quite a bit prior to the second World War, but ultimately were stationed in 1941 at Mayor Chapman's birthplace, Fort Leavenworth, where he commanded a general staff school. In the summer of that year, he represented the United States on a military mission to Europe and lived through four months of the "Battle of Britain." When the US entered the war, he was training officer for General E. W. Fales, now a resident of Monterey Peninsula, who directed the training of 20,000 new inductees at Camp Roberts. Later, General Fale took him to Florida with him at the establishment of Camp Blanding, the largest training center in the country. Mayor Chapman commanded the 306th Infantry Regiment of the 77th Division, the Port Group Provisional in the Pacific, and 389th Infantry of the 98th Division, in that order. He was hospitalized in 1945 for an operation on his leg and after his release in 1946 to inactive duty he returned to his favorite town - Pacific Grove. As a boy, he remembers working on the stagecoach that made the 17-mile drive trip from Hotel Del Monte, and he worked one summer on the Point Lobos ranch of A. M. Allen. While he has travelled around more than a little, he returned to the Monterey Peninsula frequently, and ultimately carried out his plan to settle down here. Colonel Chapman's popularity in his "adopted" home town is secure, but it was never more apparent than when Pacific Grove residents went to the polls this year and elected him mayor of their town. His campaigning was almost nil.

The anniversary party - for the Casa Munras, for its manager, Jack Dougherty, and for Wilma Campbell, held last Tuesday evening at the hotel, was highlighted by a fashion show that was a rollicking success and a decided novelty.

Alluring as the lady models (and they were winners) were the male manikins who, in the season's smartest sports clothes for men, did their stuff with a flourish that won rounds of applause. Jim Rutledge, Walt Warfield and David Aiken were the lads who wore the clothes. Al Railton, Advertising Manager of the SPECTATOR and Ed Haber, of the Carmel Valley News, were the volunteer emcees who "assisted" commentator Ivy Lauer. Their nonsense and their unrehearsed ideas on the fashion-firsts being modeled were hilarious.

Feminine models included: Mrs. Francis J. Fitzpatrick, Miss Virginia Ward, Mrs. Ed Garnero, Miss Nancy Pohlmann, Miss Dale Dawson, Mrs. Jack Hansen, Miss Wilma Tice, Miss Melodi Brien, Mrs. Dudley Nix, Mrs. Al Elasho, Mrs. Margaret Parkhurst and Mrs. Ray Ramsey. Men's styles were by Ed Williams, coiffures by Henry, Hair-stylist of Monterey, and flowers by the N.B. Flower Shop, Carmel.

If things go according to expectations, scenes like the above will be few and far between in about a month, but it has been a long hard pull. This unrehearsed Steve Crouch photo shows a motorist making a typical mistake along the one-way section of Dolores Street where the Carmel Post Office is located. The "Do Not Enter" sign in center of picture was invisible when driver made her turn from the right of photo. It is likely she will learn her mistake by the time she arrives at the PostOffice, but only after several persons have let her know in no uncertain terms that she is travelling the wrong way on a one-way street. Visitors love it!(?)! Does this happen often? Well, Photographer Crouch found it necessary to wait only 10 minutes before an obliging motorist made the picture possible. No, officer, we don't know who the driver was. We understand that the City Council is arranging for a few more signs at the intersection. Photo by STEVE CROUCH.

The Carmel Way...

Two popular Carmelites became one last Sunday afternoon when Rev. K. Filmore Grey of the Church of the Wayfarer joined Mrs. Elizabeth Spurr and Don Hodgson in holy matrimony. The bride, charming in a suit of sapphite blue velvet and wearing a corsage of white orchids, was attended by Mrs. A. C. Smiley. Don's best man was Dr. Vincent O'Connor, of Modesto. A reception at the bride's home on San Carlos Street followed the ceremony.

Following a honeymoon Mrs. Hodgson will continue her work as a member of the Gladys Johnston Real Estate office staff. The groom, for many years a Carmel resident, is associated with the Coast Counties Land Title Company, in Monterey.

Mrs. Victor Vecki is entertaining this week in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Charles Craig, of Berkeley. Mr. Craig is expected to drive down from Berkeley on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Carnson entertained at tea on Monday afternoon in honor of Miss Marion Saunders, who is visiting Carmel for the first time, en route to Hollywood.

Comdr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Quellet entertained Comdr. and Mrs. Arthur Cummings, of Ventura, last weekend.

Versatile Peter Goes East

Peter Peleuses, manager of the Drive-in Market grocery department for the past nine months, musician, artist and during his short stay here one of Carmel's most popular citizens, will leave Tuesday for a vacation in Toledo, Ohio, where he will visit his mother, Mrs. George Peleuses.

"Pete," as hundreds of Carmelites know him, is a graduate of the University of Toledo, where he majored in business administration. "I feel that California offers the highest opportunities to young business men," he said, "and that Carmel offers the world's rarest opportunities of combining business growth with cultural interests."

A pupil of Emma Evans, he is an accomplished pianist. A member of Kay Rodgers' Art Class, Peter has proved an arresting model as well as a talented pupil.

While in college he was active in 'varsity sports. During World War II he served in the Infantry in the African-European theatre and at the end of three years was the possessor of three Battle Stars and the Purple Heart.

Peter will find a warm welcome awaiting him from his many friends in town upon his return from the East.

AUDUBON SOCIETY MEETING

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Roon 11, Sunset School. After a short business session, Kodachrome slides of California mountain scenes will be shown. Mrs. Helen Spellar is chairman in charge of the program. This meeting is open to friends of the society as well as the regular members.
